

Identify the finite symmetry group of each image below. If the image has reflective symmetries, the group will be D_n where n is the number of reflection axes the image has. If there are no reflections, the group will be C_n , where n is the largest number of rotations that can be applied to the image before it gets back to its starting position.

